

In this Edition:

The Danchenko-FBI Trial
Macabre Murder of Little Lola
16 Arrested in Child Sex Trafficking
I am an Election Denier
NZ Funeral Director, COVID "Vaccination"
Archbishop Carlo Maria Vigano's Message
Dictatorship in Disguise
COVID-19 Score Cell Phone Data
Diesel Supply Shortage... and more
Online at: coloradopatriots4action.com/patriot-press

Edition 2, Volume 11 : November 2022

WHAT STORM?

Just Human : October 18, 2022

Here are some of the most significant notables we got out of the Danchenko case and trial.

- The Steele Dossier and its allegations are dead. The claims were made up and that is a matter of record now. Dolan admitted to fabricating his part and Danchenko never met with the manager of the Ritz-Carlton. Danchenko, over the course of 3.5yrs as a CHS, could not provide ANY corroboration. Furthermore Christopher Steele, who composed the dossier, could not corroborate any piece of info in it. Not even for $1,000,000.

That's FULL exoneration for Trump.

- A year after offering that $1mil to Steele, the FBI turned Danchenko against Steele and sent him back in, to meet with Steele. The objective being to gather intel on what Steele was up to and any other useful info.

- Chuck Dolan, Clinton Crony and longtime Democrat operative, was referred for an investigation thanks to information Danchenko gave the FBI. That investigation was opened and as part of it, Dolan's email, phone, and social media records were obtained via search warrant.

That investigation was later turned over and is now with the Durham Special Counsel.

- Durham put the FBI on trial via the agents he put on the stand. SIA Brian Auten was subjected to two full days of questioning, none of it friendly. We learned of the Crossfire Hurricane and Mueller SCO failures. We also learned that Auten has been under investigation by the OIG for some time.

He has been recommended for suspension for his role in the Carter Page FISA.

- Likewise with Special Agent Helson, Danchenko's handler. He was also forced to admit to failures in regards to handling Danchenko, though there were also successes as far as the information he sold the FBI as a CHS.

Helson is also a subject of an OIG investigation.

- Durham, via the investigation and prosecution of Danchenko, obtained a large number of interviews and testimony with SpyGate players major and minor. He also got phone, email, social media, and travel records.

Being that Danchenko was in direct contact with so many consequential people as relates to SpyGate, I wonder what else Durham learned from such records?

October 17, 2022

If Clinesmith had gotten the full measure of the potential sentence under 18 USC 1001 (False Statements), which would be Five Years Imprisonment plus a fine, how much would that have mattered to you?

If Sussmann had gotten the same, five years in prison plus a fine, how much of a win would that have been?

If Danchenko gets even half the available maximum sentence, ~12yrs in prison plus fine, would you regard that as a knockout blow to the Deep State?

The convictions of the minor players would be nice, I'd celebrate it bigly, but it wouldn't carry forward the overall dismantling of the Deep State and Swamp nearly as much as what we HAVE gotten out of these cases.

Clinesmith got a deal because he talked.

Sussmann case forever DESTROYED the Alfa Bank Hoax, got Marc Elias, Robby Mook, and a number of other people (including FBI Agents) before a grand jury and on the witness stand. Mook admitted Hillary approved the sharing of the hoax with corrupt media. We learned of Joffe (who is still under investigation) and his companies, the researchers, the spying on the EOP, and we got FBI agents on the stand where we learned they too were under investigation. Most importantly, the Sussmann case/trial busted down the attorney-

Continued on page 2

Denchenko—Continued from page 1

-client privilege wall that these corrupt people have used for decades to hide their criminality.

The Danchenko case is no different. I don't expect a conviction, though I do expect Durham will successfully prove his case and do WANT a conviction; I expect, and have seen in the filings to date, the further dismantling of the Steele Dossier, the exposure of longtime Clinton apparatchik Chuck Dolan (who was referred for investigation), the absolute BOMBHELL that Danchenko was made a CHS and then informed on Dolan (and others), and now Dolan is going to testify AGAINST Danchenko! The Danchenko case has given us the REAL Russian collusion, which was between Hillary, the Dems, their PR firms, Steele, and the Ukrainian-Born, suspected Russian asset Danchenko and his source, Russian Swamp loving Chuck Dolan.

This is mob trial stuff. Durham is working his way up. Getting the right people before grand juries, on witness stands, getting the docs, and getting the filings he NEEDS in the court record for future prosecutions of corrupt players higher up.

Dismantling a criminal syndicate cannot be done within just one trial. It takes many investigations, many cases, many trials. Danchenko is an important one, but it is just one of many.

<https://t.me/freedomforcebattalion/28925>

<https://t.me/realjust human/10002>

“THIS IS MOB TRIAL STUFF.”

The macabre murder of little Lola in France, revenge or satanic ritual?

By CHRIS JEWERS and JACK NEWMAN FOR MAILONLINE
 PUBLISHED: 11:07 EDT, 18 October 2022 | UPDATED: 11:11 EDT, 18 October 2022

A woman accused of the horrific torture, rape and murder of a 12-year-old girl in Paris is an Algerian national who overstayed her visa, it was confirmed today, sparking outcry in France.

Dahbia B., who arrived in France in 2016 on a student residence permit, was indicted yesterday after the body of young Lola Daviet was found stuffed in a suitcase on the street with a slit to her throat, signs of torture and sexual violence, and the letters 1 and 0 imprinted on her corpse.

As authorities confirmed reports that the suspect was an illegal immigrant, some politicians said the killing showed failings in the government's law and order policies.

'This murder should not have happened. The assassin should not have been in France,' said conservative Olivier Marleix, president of the Les Republicans National Assembly group. 'There is a very deep emotion in our country.'

French far-right leader Marine Le Pen said in parliament: 'Too many crimes are being committed by clandestine immigrants one has not been able or willing to deport.'

Prime Minister Elizabeth Borne hit back, asking her to 'show some decency'.

Dahbia B. arrived legally in France in 2016 on a student residence permit. But she was notified with an obligation to leave French territory in August after failing to produce a valid residence permit.

She was arrested at an airport on August 21 by police but had no further dealings with them until Friday's killing. Meanwhile, French President Emmanuel Macron met with Lola's parents on Tuesday. 'He offered them his condolences and assured them of all his solidarity and support in the ordeal they are going through and which upsets us all,' his office said.

At Lola's home, neighbors laid flowers and candles in tribute to her. 'It's unbearable,' said a neighbor who declined to give her name. 'We've been living in this neighborhood for years and we've just come here to give support to the family, in leaving a bouquet, because like many people, this breaks our hearts.'

Prosecutors said yesterday Dahbia B. had brought Lola to her sister's apartment where she forced her to take a shower, then 'committed harm of a sexual nature and other violent acts against (Lola) that caused her death, and hid her body in the trunk'.

When the suspect, who has no criminal record but was the victim of domestic violence in 2018, was shown photographs of Lola's body, she allegedly replied: 'It does not make me hot or cold. I too was raped and saw my parents die in front of me.'

Continued on Page 3

Step into your God-Given confidence, with Peace, and understand the Spiritual Mantle you have been gifted. Go EFFECT CHANGE We Are Already VICTORIOUS!

Macabre, continued from page 2

Lola's mutilated body was later found near the building, in the city's 19th arrondissement.

'The suspect had boasted about selling body parts,' said an investigating source. 'Evidence suggests that the girl was taken into the basement of the flat, where she was tortured, and raped, before being strangled and having her throat cut.'

The source added: 'The suspect is believed to suffer with serious psychological problems. She was living on the street, but had friends and family in the Paris area.' A judicial source confirmed Dahbia B was in custody charged with 'the murder of a child under 15, rape, and torture'.

On Friday night after the body was discovered, three people were arrested near the scene.

Then, a woman, who was spotted on CCTV with the schoolgirl hours before her death, was also held. Two others were also arrested and all are originally from Algeria, Le Parisien said.

Lola's parents had called police after their daughter did not return from middle school on Friday afternoon.

The victim's mother went to police at 5pm on Friday evening when she became worried that her daughter had not returned home, and posted a desperate appeal for help on social media.

Mrs. Daviet posted an image of Lola accompanied by the following message: 'Our daughter Lola was last seen at 3.20pm in the company of a woman we do not know in our residence.'

Her father, the custodian in the building, saw the unknown woman enter the building in Paris' 19th district alongside his daughter when he checked the CCTV recordings.

Witnesses later said they saw the woman dragging the suitcase which was 'stained with blood' and 'smelt strongly of bleach'.

An investigating source said: 'The alleged murderer somehow earned her victim's confidence and led her into a cellar below the building, where the attack happened.'

'The attacker had been talking about selling organs and body parts, but none of this makes sense. She acted alone and gratuitously, and defiled her victim before killing her.'

A homeless man was the first to discover the body, which sources familiar with the investigation said was hidden under cloths in a plastic box in the building's courtyard.

The victim was discovered with her feet and wrists bound, tape around her face and several cuts to her throat, just hours after she was reported missing by her parents when she failed to return after class.

She had numbers placed on her body by a 'device', rather than cut into her skin, according to a police source cited by French broadcaster BFMTV.

A post-mortem examination on Saturday concluded that she had died of a asphyxiation following a physical attack that included a knife being used to cut her body.

One resident said he saw the suspect dragging the suitcase around two hours prior to Lola's disappearance, and was offered money to help her move it.

'We saw her go into the building, and she was dragging the suitcase with her,' he said. 'She did not seem right in the mind.'

Others saw the suspect drinking a coffee and eating a croissant as she appeared to 'try and work out what to do next'.

Police told French media they had uncovered signs of kidnapping in the basement of the building and launched a murder enquiry.

Investigators tracked her movements on CCTV cameras from the building and the surrounding area as well as using phone records and physical searches.

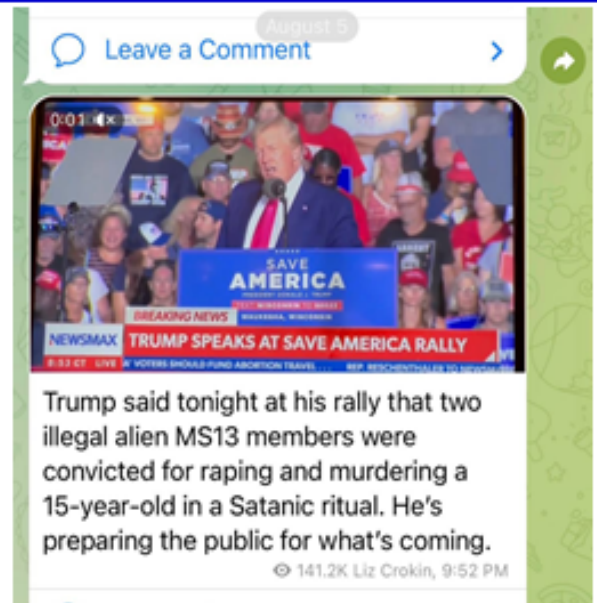

The 43-year-old man also questioned in custody on Monday admitted that he brought the 24-year-old woman to his home with the trunk and two suitcases, where he said she stayed for two hours before leaving again in a chauffeur-driven car he had called for her.

'What's important is that the main suspect for now has been arrested, there's no psychopath roaming the streets of this neighborhood,' said 19th district mayor Francois Dagnaud said during a visit to the Georges-Brassens school.

'Of course, the fact that a 12-year-old child can die in such circumstances is overwhelming for everybody,' he added, saying that counselling would also be offered to local residents

Parisian officials indicated that staff and students of the Georges Brassens school, as well as neighboring schools in the area, would receive psychological support.

'The killer reportedly confessed to have drawn the blood from the victim to drink it.'

Trump has mentioned [in a Save America Rally] that illegal alien MS-13 gang members committed the rape and murder of a 15-year-old girl in a Satanic ritual twice since August. Meanwhile, there's a case in France where a 12-year-old girl named Lola was also raped and murdered in a possible Satanic ritual by an illegal. The killer reportedly confessed to have drawn the blood from the victim to drink it. This evil is real, and the left wants to threaten and cancel anyone who dares to tell the truth about it.—From Liz Cronkin Channel, Telegram

<https://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-11328177/Outcry-France-emerges-woman-killed-Lola-Algerian-overstayed-visa.html>

Hypocrisy

So prevalent it's not even novel any more.

16 suspects arrested in Arizona child sex crimes operation

By Marissa Sarbak and Brent Corrado
Published October 25, 2022 8:56AM

More than a dozen people have been arrested following an undercover operation targeting sex crimes and human trafficking in Arizona.

Phoenix Police says its department partnered with other agencies for "Operation Tangled Web," which "targeted the demand for child sex crimes and human trafficking."

During the operation, undercover detectives placed ads on websites "commonly sought out by suspects seeking illegal sex acts."

"The suspects allegedly solicited and/or brokered deals for various sex acts and were subsequently arrested," police said.

"The Phoenix Police Department routinely conducts operations of this type with our local, state and federal partners in a continuous effort to reduce the demand that fuels child sex trafficking and the exploitation of children in our community," police said. "The following suspects solicited various sex acts from minors and were arrested."

Detectives spent weeks pretending to be minors online, conversing with the men.

Tempe and Mesa police departments were involved, as well as the FBI, Maricopa County Attorney's Office, and Homeland Security.

"Typically during the end of the conversation, they might want to meet up somewhere and go through with what was already suggested or solicited," Phoenix Police Sgt. Melissa Soliz said.

These departments conduct child sex crimes stings so frequently, proving the demand for sex from minors is always there.

"There's never enough times to do this. These people need to be taken off the streets, and unfortunately, it's incidents like this or operations like this that help us catch them before they're able to victimize a child," Soliz said.

These are regular people who walk among us, oftentimes unsuspected by anyone in their lives, she says.

"We don't know who these people are because they have regular working jobs, white collar, blue collar jobs, and in order to catch them, we need them to commit the act," Soliz said.

According to court documents, one of the suspects arrested in the child sex crime sting is a pediatrician who works at a local hospital.

Bryce Olsen, 36, was arrested by undercover detectives at Arizona Mills Mall after setting up a meeting with what he believed to be a 15 year old.

During an interview with police, Olsen said he worked at a Mesa hospital.

A judge set a cash-only bond for Olsen at $100,000.

<https://www.fox10phoenix.com/news/16-suspects-arrested-in-arizona-child-sex-crimes-operation>

Forwarded from abSolut@truth1776 (Absolute1776)

My Plan :

God's Plan :

Sometimes God doesn't do things the way we think he should. But God has a perfect plan for your life.

Trust God! ~Amen~

Why are we seeing so many of these stories lately?

~ ~ ~ ~

The children will Unite the Nations

~ ~ ~ ~

Out of the darkness, into the Light!

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

I AM AN ELECTION DENIER, by Peg Cage.

I deny that there was an election in 2020. Or in June of 2022. In fact, for the last couple decades, we Coloradans have experienced corrupt paper-shuffle "election shows" that have resulted in the steady increase of tyrannical government. "Elections," the method by which the sovereign citizens of a free state choose under whom they will consent to be governed, are things of the distant past.

Was Stalin right when he said, "It's enough that the people know there was an election...?" How can we be content to accept the results of "elections" when every part of the election process is now, or has been, challenged in court? When NOT ONE lawsuit has been allowed to go to trial? When, as Secretary of State, Wayne Williams solved the problem of not being able to verify voters in mail ballots elections by defining "ballots cast" as something the county clerk does, effectively removing voter verification (and voters!) from the election process? Why are we going complacently into yet another election season with nothing changed? Maybe because it's easier to sit down and shut up than it is to deal with the ramifications of pointing out the obvious – "That wasn't an election!" (By the way, Williams is now a Senior Advisor for Run-beck Election Services.)

Why are we called "Election Deniers" when we encourage honest elections, held on one day, where voters verified as eligible receive their unique paper ballot, vote it in secret, have their ballots accounted for with a strict chain of custody, counted by hand at the precinct level in a transparent operation, then verified and certified by representative partisan Canvass Board members? I think it's because honest elections would put dishonest politicians out of power, and the "election show" producers would, in turn, be out of business. Think about it – it's a HUGE business, with HUGE profits coming directly out of the taxpayer's pockets, as directed by dishonest politicians. A large part of the election show is propaganda, which rewards the radically complacent and demonizes the "Deniers."

This is where they want us to say, "There's no proof that the 2020 election was stolen." There IS proof – but it is hard to get it out there with all the censorship. Here are a few examples of censorship and intimidation I've experienced -

- My website, MyColoradoGOP.org, was temporarily shut down when I was working with primary election canvass board members from around the state to show them that Colorado's elections are not certifiable and helping them write their minority reports.
- We received an intimidating cease and desist letter from the Colorado Republican Committee's lawyer, (whose law firm also represents Dominion), telling us to stop using the URL "MyColoradoGOP.org" for the website, on Facebook, on Telegram, and in our email address. He claimed that we needed the CRC Executive Committee's permission to use their name. Our lawyer pointed out that their name is "Colorado Republican Committee," and while they're often referred to as "The GOP," in our case "GOP" stands for "Government Of the People." We haven't heard from him since.

We hosted an election integrity debate called "Gold Standard or Pyrite?" Matt Crane, the Colorado County Clerks Association Executive Director, was invited to debate United States Election Integrity Plan's Colonel Shawn Smith, Air Force retired. Crane said "the time for debate is over" in his text stating he wouldn't attend. So "Data Jeff" Young joined Smith for a presentation to debunk Crane's "proof" that the elections were honest.

So now what? Do we just stop voting? NO! NO! NO! Vote! Please vote! Vote on election day, in person, on a new paper ballot, for the candidate with the most integrity in each category, and against any issue that would grow government. Ask everyone you know to vote, especially for the local candidates who have the biggest influence on our lives. And let's get involved, wherever we can, to be a positive influence in our communities.

Read more of Peg's work at MyColoradoGOP.org/332-election-denier

Openvaers.com/covid-data

1,447,520 Reports Through October 21, 2022

of Adverse Events Reported

VAERS is the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System put in place in 1990. It is a voluntary reporting system that has been estimated to account for only 1% (see the Lazarus Report) of vaccine injuries. OpenVAERS is built from HHS data downloadable at vaers.hhs.gov.

Patriot Press has always been self-funded and FREE, but printing costs have doubled making it difficult to keep this going.

A small monthly donation can keep Patriot Press printing. Your donations are greatly appreciated. God Bless.

@Michaela1806

Last 4 digits: 2051

venmo

NZ Funeral Director Confirms UK and US Embalmer Reports: 95% of Corpses Had Received Covid “Vaccination” Within 2 Weeks of Death

By JD Rucker—October 21, 2022

We have been seeing more and more blockbuster reports confirming adverse reactions to the Covid-19 jabs lately, but this one might be the most shocking in a long time.

A new report is finally confirming and arguably doubling-down on a bombshell report that dropped in early September. Embalmers from across the globe were reporting strange clots in the veins of the recently deceased that they’d never seen before the Covid-19 vaccines were rolled out. Many believed the report might start making a dent in the narrative and agenda to get as many people jabbed as often as possible, especially since it was published by reputable news outlets like The Epoch Times.

If it did make a dent, we barely noticed. The stories were quickly dropped in the corporate media memory hole and “fact-checkers” were busy “debunking” the stories without actually offering proof that the multiple reports from disparate embalmers were made up.

In reality, I believe that and other reports did make a difference even if they were not covered by large media companies. More people are turning to alternative media sources, especially regarding controversial topics like the Covid-19 “vaccines.” Every new bit of news may draw some people closer to seeing the light while pushing others to actually come into the light. I often say we need allies for the fight to come, which is why it’s so important for us to continue spreading the truth.

The latest bombshell is a single-source confirmation of what we learned from embalmers last month. A funeral director in New Zealand with decades of experience has come out to reveal one of the most shocking reports we’ve seen so far. According to Brenton Faithfull, 95% of the bodies he has seen in his profession have been “vaccinated” within two weeks of their demise.

If this is true — and there’s no reason to doubt someone who’s been in the business for 41 years and has no apparent incentive to lie about it — then it would confirm two things. First, the jabs kill. Duh. Second, it means there are likely others in the industry who know about it but are keeping their mouths shut. Whether they’ve been bribed, bullied, blackmailed, or if they just don’t want to get involved, they know and they’re not saying anything. As hard as it is for some to believe that an entire industry could be quashed or otherwise kept quiet, we have to remember the vast majority of doctors recommend the jabs today even though the science denies their efficacy and safety.

Here’s the article by Ennico Trigo from our premium news partners at The Epoch Times that details the report.

95 Percent of Corpses Had Received COVID Vaccination Within 2 Weeks of Death: Funeral Director

A funeral director from New Zealand says that 95 percent of the corpses he has been seeing had received a COVID-19 vaccine within two weeks of their passing away.

“Ninety-five percent of the people who have passed away through the work that I’ve done have been vaccinated within two weeks,” Brenton Faithfull said.

Faithfull has been working as a funeral director for the last 41 years and has been running his own mortuary business for the last 26 years. He recently spoke out about the apparent relationship between the COVID-19 vaccines and the deaths he has been observing.

“It’s very obvious, they die within two weeks of receiving the vaccination, a lot of them ... almost appear to have died from anaphylaxis, almost a reaction straight away to the booster.”

Anaphylaxis is an acute reaction of the body to an antigen, such as that of a bee sting, or an injection.

“They die the same day, the following day after receiving the COVID-19 vaccination. This isn’t a one-off case, this is the majority of cases that have come through our facility,” Faithfull said in an interview.

UK Funeral Director

Similar data has been discussed by funeral director John O’Looney in the UK and Richard Hirschman from Alabama, previously reported by The Epoch Times.

“From the very moment these injections went into arms, the death rate soared beyond belief. They labeled them all as COVID deaths, but the reality is they were almost exclusively the people who were vaccinated,” O’Looney told The Epoch Times.

“We now see record numbers of deaths in the vaccinated and in record numbers of young people. They die from a mixture of sudden very aggressive cancers or blood clots, which cause heart attack and stroke,” he added.

Doctors Comment

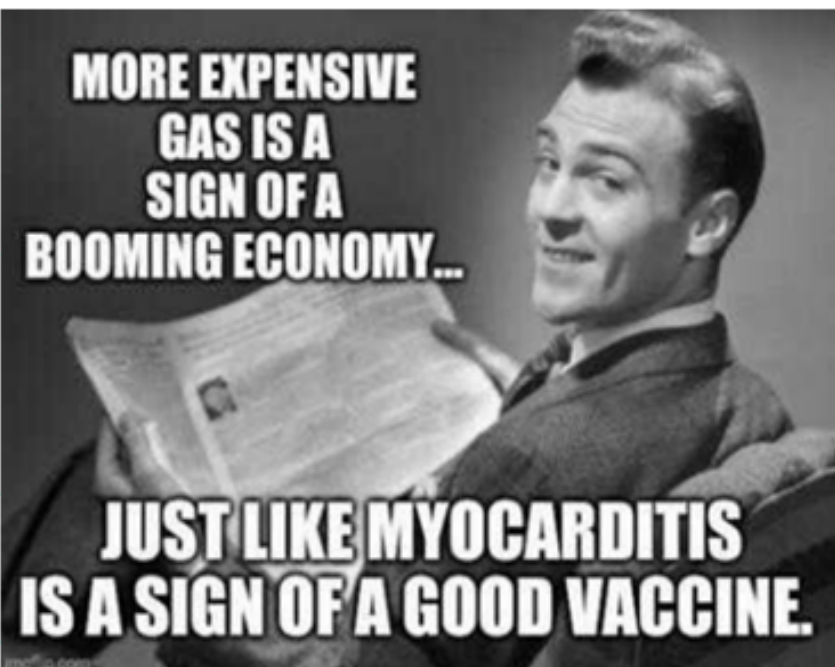

Dr. Sheri Tenpenny, who has been informing the public on the dangers of vaccines for over two decades, weighed in on Faithfull’s testimony:

“On Dec. 2, 2020, UK regulators granted emergency-use authorization (EUA) to Pfizer’s COVID-19 shot. Within a week, MHRA [Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency] Chief Executive Officer June Raine said in a statement that ‘Any person with a history of anaphylaxis to a vaccine, medicine or food should not receive the Pfizer BioNTech vaccine.’ She went on to say that ‘allergic reactions had not been a feature of Pfizer’s clinical trials,’” Dr. Tenpenny told The Epoch Times.

However, Tenpenny further noted that anaphylaxis was the “first identified risk.”

“Pfizer was forced to release their findings by a Texas federal judge in January 2022.

Continued on Page 7

Funeral Directors, continued from page 6

Within that first tranche of documents, you will find Table 3—Safety Concerns—on page 10 of this document [pdf]. The first identified risk is anaphylaxis. In a risk survey ... conducted between Dec. 1, 2020, and Feb. 28, 2021, a mere three months, 1,833 cases of anaphylaxis had been observed and four individuals died from anaphylaxis on the same," she said.

In certain cases, Faithfull and his staff try to get the coroner involved.

Faithfull shared one instance where a man insisted that his father should not get the vaccine, but his sister pressured their father. When the father conceded and took the shot, he died four days later.

"When I started courting in August of last year, it was one after the other, after the other, after the other, and when I got to 20, it was 19 who had died within two weeks [of getting the vaccine]," Faithfull said.

"So the first 20 days, I counted 19 of them—that's 95 percent," the funeral director explained. "The next number was 100 percent of the people who died had been vaccinated within two weeks."

Dr. Sanjay Verma is a cardiologist practicing in California who has been seeing a dramatic increase in heart problems since the rollout of the vaccines.

"Previous work by Dr. Gundry demonstrated an increase in cardiac inflammatory markers after COVID-19 vaccination. Interestingly, from Dec 2021 thru Jun 2022, 100 percent of the patients needing urgent cardiac catheterization for heart attack had been vaccinated, many of them with booster doses. More than half had been recently vaccinated (within a few weeks). In a county where 60 percent of the population is vaccinated, this trend was worrisome," Verma told The Epoch Times.

"There have been 31,470 deaths after COVID-19 vaccination reported in VAERS.

The vast majority of them are clustered within seven days after vaccination. Additionally, there are some other worrisome trends. Data from CDC indicate there were 60,000 deaths in Sept 2019 and Sept 2020. However, in Sept 2021 that number surged to 90,000. We also have numerous social media posts on people, especially athletes, who 'died suddenly' with no apparent cause," Verma said.

Verma believes that any unexplained death within a few weeks or even months after vaccination should be "investigated with a thorough autopsy," specifically evaluated for spike protein in the brain, major blood vessels, and heart.

"We know the spike protein is toxic to blood vessels, causing endothelial dysfunction. The spike protein is also toxic to heart muscle, causing myocardial injury. There are also case reports of autopsy proven vaccine-mediated encephalitis (inflammation of the brain), myocarditis, and vasculitis, all of which can cause death," Verma added.

<https://americafirstreport.com/nz-funeral-director-confirms-uk-and-us-embalmer-reports-95-of-corpse-had-received-covid-vaccination-within-2-weeks-of-death/>

"So the first 20 days, I counted 19 of them—that's 95 percent," the funeral director explained. "The next number was 100 percent of the people who died had been vaccinated within two weeks."

Where We Go 1 We Go All
@BradCOZ · 10s

You know what's extreme and a threat to the foundation of our Republic?

Teaching 3rd graders about sex and/or chopping their D off.
Sending 100 Billion to far off Countries.
Hiring 87,000 IRS agents to take that 100 Billion from your citizens by force.
Purposely leaving the Taliban Billions in Weaponry "Opps" while simultaneously working to disarm your OWN populace.
Doubling peoples cost of living.
Encouraging Protesters while they smash, loot, and burn countless cities.

That's Extreme.

When longing for wholesomeness and family values is deemed extremism, you got a problem...

Keeping you confused and in a constant state of chaos is their power over YOU!

AwakenedOutlaw & on TruthSocial

The truth is easy to keep track of when you're not attempting to confuse and/or undermine it. 42.2K 11:27 AM

Turning off the Fake News of continuous LIARS is your best defense against the brainwashing they've been using to control us for more the 60 years.

Ask Questions ✨ Get Curious ✨ Do Your Research ✨

Archbishop Carlo Maria Vigano's Message to Catholic Church Urging Leadership to Revisit Their Stance on COVID-19 Vaccines

Archbishop Carlo Maria Vigano

By Joe Hoft—October 21, 2022

In an exclusive to The Gateway Pundit, Archbishop Vigano shares with us his message to the Catholic Church regarding the church's stance on the COVID-19 Vaccine.

Here are some segments from Archbishop Vigano's letter [emphasis added]:

Last year, on October 23, 2021, I wrote a letter to the President of the United States Bishops' Conference, which was also sent to you, in which I expressed – as I have already done publicly – my very strong reservations on various extremely controversial aspects regarding the moral legitimacy of the use of experimental gene serums produced using mRNA technology. In that letter, which was written with the help of eminent scientists and virologists, I highlighted the need to update the Note on the morality of using some anti-Covid-19 vaccines, due to the scientific evidence that had emerged even then and moreover had been declared by the pharmaceutical manufacturers themselves.

Permit me, Your Eminence, to renew my appeal in the light of recent declarations made by Pfizer to the European Parliament and the publication of official data by the world health agencies.

First of all, I remind you that the document from the Dicastery over which you preside was promulgated on December 21, 2020, in the absence of complete data about the nature of the gene serum and its components, and also without any results from the efficacy and safety trials. The subject of the Note was limited to the "moral aspects of the use of the vaccines against Covid-19 that have been developed from cell lines derived from tissues obtained from two fetuses that were not spontaneously aborted." The Congregation further reiterated: "We do not intend to judge the safety and efficacy of these vaccines, although ethically relevant and necessary, as this evaluation is the responsibility of biomedical researchers and drug agencies." Safety and efficacy were thus not the subject of the Note, which in expressing an opinion about the "moral aspects of the use" did not deem it appropriate to comment on the "morality of the production" of these drugs.

The safety and efficacy of the individual vaccines should have been established after a period of experimentation, which normally takes several years. But in this case the health authorities have decided to carry out the experimentation on the entire population, departing from the normal practice of the scientific community, international regulations, and the laws of individual nations. The results that are now emerging from the official data published in all the countries that adopted the mass vaccine campaign are incontestably disastrous: it is emerging that people who have been subjected to inoculation with the experimental serum not only have never been protected from contagion by the virus, nor from grave forms of illness, but they have actually been made more vulnerable to Covid-19 and its variants due to the irreversible compromising of their immune systems caused by mRNA technology. The data also highlights serious short- and long-term effects, such as sterility, the inducement of miscarriages in pregnant women, the transmission of the virus to children through breastfeeding, the development of serious heart conditions including myocarditis and pericarditis, the return of cancerous tumors that had previously been cured, and a whole series of other debilitating diseases. The many cases of sudden deaths – which until recently were stubbornly considered as having no relation to inoculation with the serum – are revealing the consequence of repeated doses, even in people who are young, healthy, and physically fit. Members of the military, who are rigorously controlled by health personnel for safety reasons, are showing the same incidence of adverse effects after receiving the serum. Countless studies are now confirming that the serum may cause forms of acquired immunodeficiency in those who receive it. Worldwide, the number of deaths and grave pathologies following vaccination is increasing exponentially. These vaccines have caused more deaths than all other vaccines combined in the last thirty years. And not only this: in many nations the number of those who have died after vaccination is significantly higher than the number of those who died from Covid.

The Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, although not expressing an opinion on the efficacy and safety of the serums, nevertheless defined them as "vaccines," taking for granted that they would give immunity and protect people against active and passive contagion. But this element has now been disavowed by the declarations that are coming from all of the world health authorities and the WHO, who now say that those who are vaccinated may become infected themselves and infect other people more seriously than people who are not vaccinated, and also that their immune systems have been drastically reduced if not actually cancelled. The drugs that have been called "vaccines" thus do not correspond to the official definition of a vaccine, to which the Note presumably refers. A vaccine is defined as a preparation which induces the production of protective antibodies by an organism, conferring a specific resistance against a determined infective illness (either viral, bacterial, or protozoal). This definition has now been modified by the WHO, because otherwise it would not have been able to include anti-covid drugs within the definition of a vaccine, since these drugs do not induce the production of protective antibodies and do not confer a specific resistance against the infectious disease caused by SarsCoV-2. It should be pointed out that the presence of graphene oxide both in the batches of the "vaccine" as well as in the blood of those who have been inoculated has now been proven beyond any reasonable doubt, despite the fact that there is no scientific justification for its presence nor for its pharmaceutical use on human beings due to its toxicity. The devastating effects of graphene oxide on the organs of people who have been subjected to inoculation are now evident, and it is likely that pharmaceutical companies will soon be held accountable. Your Eminence surely already knows that the use of these technologies with self-assembling graphene oxide nanostructures has also been patented in order to allow for the tracking and remote control of subjects, in particular in order to monitor the vital parameters of each patient in a way that is connected to the cloud via the Bluetooth signal emitted by these nanostructures. As proof that this information is not the result of the ruminations of some conspiracy theorists, Your Eminence perhaps knows that the European Union has chosen as winners of a competition two projects dedicated to technological innovation: The Human Brain and Graphene. These two projects will each receive one billion euros in funding over the next ten years.

"The devastating effects of graphene oxide on the organs of people who have been subjected to inoculation are now evident"

Archbishop, continued from page 8

The “vaccines” against Covid-19 have been presented as the only possible alternative to a deadly disease.

“the use of these technologies with self-assembling graphene oxide nanostructures has also been patented in order to allow for the tracking and remote control of subjects”

This was false from the very beginning, and with the perspective of two years it has also been confirmed as false: there were and are alternative treatments, but they have been methodically boycotted by the pharmaceutical companies because they are inexpensive and not profitable for them – and discredited by scientific publications financed by Big Pharma with articles that were later withdrawn because they were clearly based on falsified data. Furthermore, Covid-19 has been revealed to be – as was known and as was scientifically evident – to be a seasonal form of the coronavirus that is treatable and not deadly, a form of flu that causes only a minimal number of deaths among people who already have some other underlying condition. The multi-year monitoring of the coronavirus leaves no doubt in this regard and also eliminates the element of a “health emergency” that was used as a pretext to impose the vaccines.

The international norms specify that an experimental drug cannot be authorized for distribution except in the absence of another effective alternative treatment. This is why drug agencies around the world have prevented the use of ivermectin, hyperimmune plasma, and other treatments whose effectiveness has been demonstrated. There is no need to remind Your Eminence that all of these agencies, along with the WHO, are almost entirely financed by pharmaceutical companies and foundations linked to them and that there is a grave conflict of interest at the highest levels. In the past few days the President of the European Commission, Ursula von der Leyen, had to answer to the Parliament about the PNRR funding that was obtained for the laboratories in Italy and Greece where her husband works, without forgetting that the same President refused to provide the European Court of Auditors with the text messages she exchanged with the CEO of Pfizer, Albert Bourla, about supply contracts, messages which still have not been revealed.

The imposition of the experimental serum took place through a coordinated employment of methods that was unprecedented in recent history, using mass manipulation techniques that are well known to psychology experts. In this operation of media terrorism and the violation of the natural rights of individuals, accompanied by intolerable blackmail and discrimination, the Catholic Hierarchy chose to take sides with the system, making itself the promoter of “vaccines,” even reaching the point of recommending them as a “moral duty.”

The media skillfully used the spiritual authority of the Roman Pontiff and his media influence to confirm the mainstream narrative, and this was an essential element in the success of the entire vaccination campaign, convincing many of the faithful to undergo inoculation because of the trust they have placed in the Pope and his global role. The vaccination obligations imposed on employees of the Holy See, following the lines of protocols imposed in other nations, have confirmed the Vatican’s absolute alignment with extremely careless and reckless positions that are completely void of any scientific validity. This has exposed the Vatican City State to possible liability on the part of its officials, with a further burden on its treasury; and the possibility should not be excluded that the faithful may bring collective lawsuits against their own Pastors, who have been converted into salesmen of dangerous medicines.

After more than two years, the Church has not considered it necessary to make any statement to correct the Note, which in the light of new scientific evidence is now outdated and substantially contradicted by the harsh reality of the facts. Limiting itself strictly to an evaluation of the morality of the use of the vaccines, the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith has not taken account of the proportionality between the benefits of the gene serum – which have been completely absent – and the short- and long-term adverse side-effects which are now before everyone’s eyes. Since it is now evident that the drugs sold as vaccines do not give any significant benefit and on the contrary may cause a very high percentage of death or serious diseases even in people for whom Covid is not a serious threat, it is no longer possible to consider valid any attempt to demonstrate a proportionality between risks and benefits, thus eliminating one of the assumptions on which the Note was based: “The morality of vaccination depends not only on the duty to protect one’s own health, but also on the duty to pursue the common good. In the absence of other means to stop or even prevent the epidemic, the common good may recommend vaccination, especially to protect the weakest and most exposed” (n. 5). We know well that there is no “absence of other means,” and that the serum neither stops nor prevents the epidemic: this makes the mRNA “vaccine” produced with aborted cell lines not only morally unacceptable but also absolutely dangerous for one’s health, and in the case of pregnant women also for the health of their children. [\[PDF\]](#)

I am certain, Your Eminence, that you will want to consider the particular gravity of these themes, as well as the urgency of an enlightened intervention that is faithful to the teaching of the Gospel and the salus animarum which is and remains the suprema lex of the Church.

In Christo Rege,
+Carlo Maria Vigano, Archbishop

Editor’s Note:

Whether vaccinated or not, try this little experiment. When in a restaurant, open your Bluetooth settings on your phone and let the available Bluetooth networks populate. Those vaccinated with mRNA technology will populate your Bluetooth list with IP addresses that look something like this: 18.11.233.10.

These IP addressed will show up as ‘unavailable.’ If you’re vaccinated, try this at home and see what your IP address is. If you’re not horrified... you should be.

Dictatorship In Disguise: Authoritarian Monsters Wreak Havoc On Our Freedoms

On ZeroHedge, By Tyler Durden

We're living in two worlds.

There's the world we see (or are made to see) and then there's the one we sense (and occasionally catch a glimpse of), the latter of which is a far cry from the propaganda-driven reality manufactured by the government and its corporate sponsors, including the media.

Indeed, what most Americans perceive as life in America—privileged, progressive and free—is a far cry from reality, where economic inequality is growing, real agendas and real power are buried beneath layers of Orwellian double-speak and corporate obfuscation, and “freedom,” such that it is, is meted out in small, legalistic doses by militarized police and federal agents armed to the teeth.

All is not as it seems.

Monsters with human faces walk among us. Many of them work for the U.S. government.

This is the premise of John Carpenter's film They Live, which was released in November 1988 and remains unnervingly, chillingly appropriate for our modern age.

Best known for his horror film Halloween, which assumes that there is a form of evil so dark that it can't be killed, Carpenter's larger body of work is infused with a strong anti-authoritarian, anti-establishment, laconic bent that speaks to the filmmaker's concerns about the unraveling of our society, particularly our government.

Time and again, Carpenter portrays the government working against its own citizens, a populace out of touch with reality, technology run amok, and a future more horrific than any horror film.

In Escape from New York, Carpenter presents fascism as the future of America.

In The Thing, a remake of the 1951 sci-fi classic of the same name, Carpenter presupposes that increasingly we are all becoming dehumanized.

In Christine, the film adaptation of Stephen King's novel about a demon-possessed car, technology exhibits a will and consciousness of its own and goes on a murderous rampage.

In In the Mouth of Madness, Carpenter notes that evil grows when people lose “the ability to know the difference between reality and fantasy.”

And then there is Carpenter's They Live, in which two migrant workers discover that the world is not as it seems. In fact, the population is actually being controlled and exploited by aliens working in partnership with an oligarchic elite. All the while, the populace—blissfully unaware of the real agenda at work in their lives—has been lulled into complacency, indoctrinated into compliance, bombarded with media distractions, and hypnotized by subliminal messages beamed out of television and various electronic devices, billboards and the like.

It is only when homeless drifter John Nada (played to the hilt by the late Roddy Piper) discovers a pair of doctored sunglasses—Hoffman lenses—that Nada sees what lies beneath the elite's fabricated reality: control and bondage.

When viewed through the lens of truth, the elite, who appear human until stripped of their disguises, are shown to be monsters who have enslaved the citizenry in order to prey on them.

Likewise, billboards blare out hidden, authoritative messages: a bikini-clad woman in one ad is actually ordering viewers to “MARRY AND REPRODUCE.” Magazine racks scream “CONSUME” and “OBEY.” A wad of dollar bills in a vendor's hand proclaims, “THIS IS YOUR GOD.”

When viewed through Nada's Hoffman lenses, some of the other hidden messages being drummed into the people's subconscious include: NO INDEPENDENT THOUGHT, CONFORM, SUBMIT, STAY ASLEEP, BUY, WATCH TV, NO IMAGINATION, and DO NOT QUESTION AUTHORITY.

This indoctrination campaign engineered by the elite in They Live is painfully familiar to anyone who has studied the decline of American culture.

A citizenry that does not think for themselves, obeys without question, is submissive, does not challenge authority, does not think outside the box, and is content to sit back and be entertained is a citizenry that can be easily

Steve Bannon ✓
@SteveBannon · 4h
Fact Check: TRUE

Bannon said it! 18.5K Freedom Fo... 8:21 PM controlled.

In this way, the subtle message of They Live provides an apt analogy of our own distorted vision of life in the American police state, what philosopher Slavoj Žižek refers to as dictatorship in democracy, “the invisible order which sustains your apparent freedom.”

We're being fed a series of carefully contrived fictions that bear no resemblance to reality.

Tune out the government's attempts to distract, divert and befuddle us and tune into what's really going on in this country, and you'll run headlong into an unmistakable, unpalatable truth: what we are dealing with today is an authoritarian beast that has outgrown its chains and will not be restrained.

Continued on page 11

🇺🇸 “Children have the right to have sex with whoever they want. It's their right”. -Spain's Ministry of diversity & gender ideologist

After decades of slow-cooking & turning up the heat in the pot, the human 'frogs' have become numb & not realizing their children sexualizing & grooming agenda — until now. Human parents — it's your move now!

DO YOU SEE IT YET?

Dictatorship, continued from page 10

Through its acts of power grabs, brutality, meanness, inhumanity, immorality, greed, corruption, debauchery and tyranny, the government has become almost indistinguishable from the evil it claims to be fighting, whether that evil takes the form of terrorism, torture, disease, drug trafficking, sex trafficking, murder, violence, theft, pornography, scientific experimentations or some other diabolical means of inflicting pain, suffering and servitude on humanity.

We have let the government's evil-doing and abuses go on for too long.

We're being fed a series of carefully contrived fictions that bear no resemblance to reality.

Despite the fact that we are 17,600 times more likely to die from heart disease than from a terrorist attack; 11,000 times more likely to die from an airplane accident than from a terrorist plot involving an airplane; 1,048 times more likely to die from a car accident than a terrorist attack, and 8 times more likely to be killed by a police officer than by a terrorist, we have handed over control of our lives to government officials who treat us as a means to an end—the source of money and power.

As the Bearded Man in They Live wails, "They are dismantling the sleeping middle class. More and more people are becoming poor. We are their cattle. We are being bred for slavery."

We have bought into the illusion and refused to grasp the truth.

From the moment we are born until we die, we are indoctrinated into believing that those who rule us do it for our own good. The truth is far different.

The powers-that-be want us to feel threatened by forces beyond our control (terrorists, pandemics, mass shootings, etc.). They want us afraid and dependent on the government and its militarized armies for our safety and well-being. They want us distrustful of each other, divided by our prejudices, and at each other's throats.

Most of all, they want us to continue to march in lockstep with their dictates as fearful, controlled, pacified zombies.

This brings me back to They Live, in which the real zombies are not the aliens calling the shots but the populace who are content to remain controlled.

When all is said and done, the world of They Live is not so different from our own. As one of the characters points out, "The poor and the underclass are growing. Racial justice and human rights are nonexistent. They have created a repressive society and we are their unwitting accomplices. Their intention to rule rests with the annihilation of consciousness. We have been lulled into a trance. They have made us indifferent to ourselves, to others. We are focused only on our own gain."

We, too, are focused only on our own pleasures, prejudices and gains. Our poor and underclasses are also growing. Injustice is growing. Inequality is growing. A concern for human rights is nearly nonexistent. We too have been lulled into a trance, indifferent to others.

Oblivious to what lies ahead, we've been manipulated into believing that if we continue to consume, obey, and have faith, things will work out. But that's never been true of emerging regimes. And by the time we feel the hammer coming down upon us, it will be too late.

So where does that leave us? The characters who populate Carpenter's films provide some insight. Undemeath their machismo, they still believe in the ideals of liberty and equal opportunity. Their beliefs place them in constant opposition with the law and the establishment, but they are nonetheless freedom fighters.

DEMOCRATS ALWAYS BETTER THAN YOU

Martha's Vineyard residents right now

... on Paper!

When, for example, John Nada destroys the alien hypno-transmitter in They Live, he delivers a wake-up call for freedom. As Nada memorably declares, "I have come here to chew bubblegum and kick ass. And I'm all out of bubblegum."

In other words: we need to get active and take a stand for what's really important.

Stop allowing yourselves to be easily distracted by pointless political spectacles and pay attention to what's really going on in the country.

As I make clear in my book Battlefield America: The War on the American People and in its fictional counterpart The Erik Blair Diaries, the real battle for control of this nation is taking place on roadsides, in police cars, on witness stands, over phone lines, in government offices, in corporate offices, in public school hallways and classrooms, in parks and city council meetings, and in towns and cities across this country.

All the trappings of the American police state are now in plain sight.

Wake up, America.

If they live (the tyrants, the oppressors, the invaders, the overlords), it is only because "we the people" sleep.

<https://www.zerohedge.com/geopolitical/dictatorship-disguise-authoritarian-monsters-wreak-havoc-our-freedoms>

The ELITES Love War! This it's where....

the Rich get RICHER!

Pssst ... Guess whose money it is?

Millions of Americans Were Assigned 'COVID-19 Violation' Scores Based on Cellphone Data Collected During Lockdowns

By Michael Nevradakis, Ph.D.

A voter analytics firm harvested data from millions of Americans' cellphones during the 2020 COVID-19 lockdowns and used the data to assign phone users a "COVID-19 decree violation" score and a "COVID-19 concern" score, according to a whitepaper released by PredictWise, the firm that harvested the data.

The data, derived from "nearly 2 billion GPS pings" stemming from "ground truth, real-time, ultra-granular location patterns," according to PredictWise, was then used to target election-related messages to voters during the 2020 election season.

According to PredictWise, the firm "understood that there were potential pockets of voters to target with COVID-19 messaging and turned high-dimensional data covering over 100 million Americans into measures of adherence to COVID-19 restrictions during deep lockdown."

The data was collected with political purposes in mind, PredictWise said:

"It doesn't take a data scientist to know that COVID-19 was going to play a major role in the 2020 election.

"This once in a lifetime pandemic took control of the political debate, our airways, and ultimately our lives."

Republican voters were specifically targeted based on the data that was collected:

"PredictWise targeted Republicans who scored high on our measure of COVID-19 decree violation (folks who were on the go more often than their neighbors) and Republicans who scored low on our measure of COVID-19 decree violation (folks who mostly or always stayed at home) in the swing state, Ohio, and asked survey questions."

PredictWise also developed "COVID concern" scores:

"PredictWise found that Republican non-movers' (compliers) concern around COVID-19 and persuadability was almost as high as Democrats overall and Republican non-movers over the age of 65 were more concerned about COVID-19 than Democrats."

While PredictWise did not specify the precise period during which it harvested the data, ReclaimTheNet noted that state-level lockdowns began in the U.S. on March 15, 2020, while election day was on Nov. 4 of that year.

This is noteworthy because of the political purposes for which the data collected by PredictWise was utilized. According to the firm, this data was used in at least one U.S. Senate campaign:

"The result — the Arizona Dems Coordinated Campaign in support of now U.S. Senator Mark Kelly was able to deploy this real-time location model to open up just over 40,000 persuasion targets that normally would have fallen off, allowing them to give the right message to the right voter at the right time."

The Arizona Democratic Party is just one of the entities listed on the "2020 PredictWise Client List" accompanying the whitepaper.

The national Democratic Party as well as state-level Democratic parties in Florida, North Dakota, Ohio and South Carolina, the Ohio Senate Democrats, and organizations such as Fair Fight Action, Future Majority, TargetSmart and the Voter Participation Center, were also on the list.

As noted by PredictWise, "Last election cycle, congressional, senate, and presidential committees used PredictWise through the DNC [Democratic National Committee]. Super PACs pushed same-day registration in key swing states of Wisconsin and Michigan and produced the only statewide red-to-blue flip in a Trump-won state in Ohio (Brunner, Ohio Supreme Court)."

In total, PredictWise claims it "tracks the opinions, attitudes, and behaviors" of more than 260 million Americans, utilizing not just location and survey data, but also "telemetry data" in the form of "passively sourced cell-phone data," "unregistered voter data" and information on media consumption.

In turn, the firm developed a "dashboard that enables campaigns to build scalable customized audiences based on real-world behaviors and attitudes that track sentiment on the economy, political issues, and value frames ... from all 250 million adult U.S. voters."

This information is "compiled through real-time locations, application usage, and media consumption layered on top of surveys and available raw data" and is extrapolated "to a proprietary device ID-voter file rather than the 'offline' file based on name and address."

Continued on Page 13.

VOTE

1. Day of Election
2. At the Polls
3. On Paper

MAKE YOUR VOTE COUNT

Millions, continued from page 12.

The “unregistered voter data” is “sourced through credit files and portal registration data,” including from retail chains such as Crate&Barrel.

In total, PredictWise uses this data to create “scores on 13 issue preference clusters and 7 value-frame, or psychometric clusters,” utilizing “more than 30 million behavioral data points,” data from 350,000 survey respondents and “machine learning models” to “predict the party of unregistered [voters].”

The firm claims this “dashboard” places “at your fingertips the most up-to-date and continuous data in the business.”

PredictWise also said it “provides a rank order cut, to ensure that its targets are the most likely to respond to the correct messaging or are the most definite voters for your campaign to turnout.”

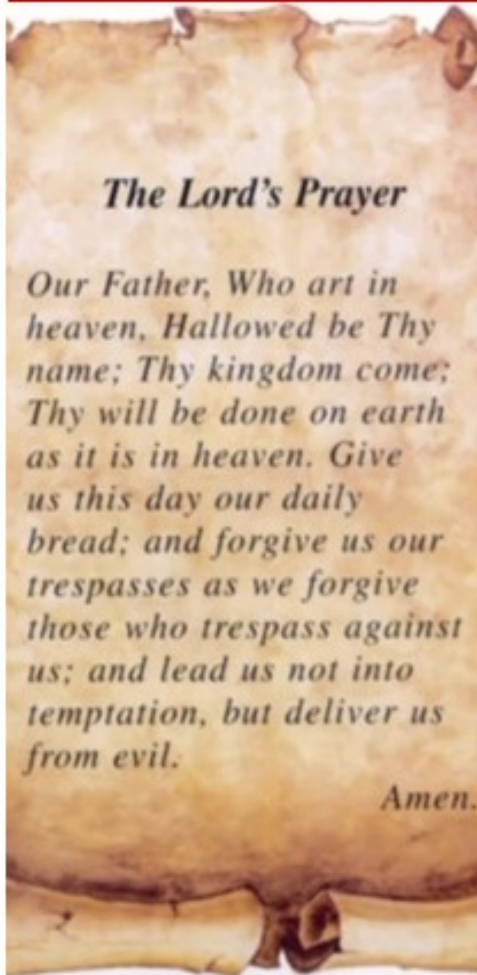

According to PredictWise, 2020 was the first year in which it “made its first push into the political landscape, serving data to campaigns both large and small” — including Ohio state senate campaigns, Democratic national committees and state parties, federal candidates, national progressive organizations and political action committees, or super PACS, that can take unlimited contributions.

The firm was founded in 2017 by Tobi (Tobias) Kontizer, formerly of Facebook Research, and David Rothschild, an economist with Microsoft Research.

Another firm closely connected to the Democratic Party, Impact Research, was advising the party and the Biden administration as early as February 2022 on how to position itself as having “defeated” COVID-19.

<https://childrenshealthdefense.org/defender/americans-harvested-cellphone-data-covid-lockdowns/>

We are in the fight for our very existence.

PHILLIPS COUNTY ELECTION INTEGRITY PROJECT Presents

PCEIP SYMPOSIUM

Join members of PCEIP for an afternoon of notable speakers covering issues with our election systems. Historical Data & Voter Rolls will be presented for the following counties: Phillips, Sedwick, Logan, Morgan, Yuma, Washington, Kit Carson and Cheyenne. The problems and solutions for secure elections is a bipartisan issue of which we are all concerned. PCEIP strongly advocates for no longer using voting machines, hand counting votes and to clean up our voter rolls.

Get your tickets now! Limited Seating Available!

Sunday, November 13, 2022
1:00PM - 6:00PM

$25

Credit Cards Accepted
 Will Call Tickets

HOLYOKE HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM
 545 E. Hale St.
 Holyoke, CO 80734

For Ticket Sales:
 To purchase via the PCEIP Facebook Page scan QR Code
 Tanya Poe 303-263-5310
 Judy Feldhausen 719-349-8658
 Jody Flocus 970-520-6987
 or Charrie Brown 970-520-5320

For more information, contact:
 Steven Brown, co-chair 720-635-8839
 Todd Workman, co-chair 970-520-2588
 Pastor Mike Brown, co-chair 970-646-2998
 or email pceip.meeting@gmail.com

THE SPEAKER LINEUP

Tina Peters

Mesa County Clerk- A patriot who has fought and made sacrifices to defend and secure our elections.

Dr. Douglas Frank

Election Analyst- will break down the data on our elections.

Ron Hanks

State Representative- a conservative voice seeking to clean voter rolls, eliminate open primaries and perform a post-election assessment.

Jeffrey O'Donnell

Lone Raccoon- national cyber security expert who co-authored the Mesa County report analysis on Dominion Machines.

Jeff Young "Data Jeff"

Director of Data & Analytics for Cause of America, helped develop the sampling plan for canvassing that ultimately led to the Colorado report.

Sen. Kevin Lundberg

Republican Colorado State Senator, author of Unmasked 2020- he will be signing copies of his book!

DEMS "NOBODY IS ABOVE THE LAW" STARTER PACK

LAPTOP

EMAILS

CLIENTS

RESEARCH

Funeral Directors / Embalmers sounding the alarm on a 12th Sigma event — a 1 in 800 year event!
STORY ON PAGE 6

The BEST part about being a 'crazy conspiracy theorist', is your chance of suffering myocarditis, blood clots, or SADS, is MASSIVELY reduced!

BIDEN ECONOMY: US Has Only 25 Days of Diesel Supply - Shortage Could Cripple Economy

By Joe Hoft
Published October 23, 2022 at 9:00am

America has only 25 days of diesel supply thanks to Joe Biden's economic crippling policies. A diesel fuel crisis will cripple the US.

PJ Media shared the news over the weekend. The fuel that is used to transport US goods across the country is in a crisis situation:

Oil prices and President Joe Biden's continued draining of the Strategic Petroleum Reserve (SPR) have dominated the headlines over the past few weeks, but analysts say a more impactful and serious crisis on the energy front looms: a diesel fuel shortage.

Diesel doesn't get as much of the limelight as oil and gas, but it should because diesel fuel is the industrial lifeblood of the United States, and the price of diesel alone probably has a more significant impact on inflation and the prices you're paying at the grocery store over any other factor. Without ample amounts of diesel, semi-trucks don't move, farms are shut down, and critical manufacturing sectors are crippled.

As Bloomberg noted this week, "The US has just 25 days of diesel supply, the lowest since 2008, according to the Energy Information Administration. At the same time, the four-week rolling average of distillates supplied, a proxy for demand, rose to its highest seasonal level since 2007."

The Biden administration has remained strangely silent, probably hoping that the dismal news doesn't hit the mainstream because it's a total political timebomb waiting to go off, especially as the midterm elections are so close.

Bloomberg noted:

The diesel crunch comes just weeks ahead of the midterm elections and has the potential to drive up prices for consumers who already view inflation and the economy as a top voting issue. Retail prices have been steadily climbing for more than two weeks. At $5.324 a gallon, they're 50% higher than this time last year, according to AAA data.

Notably, National Economic Council Director Brian Deese recently commented on the emerging crisis. Deese said diesel inventories are "unacceptably low" and added that "all options are on the table," whatever that means.

The American trucking industry is very important to this country and truckers rely on diesel to run their trucks.

According to the US Energy Information Administration (EIA), diesel fuel is used to transport goods and run military vehicles and tractors of farms:

Valerie Tytel @ValerieTytel · Follow
Taking from @JavierBlas: "US has just 106 million barrels of diesel stockpiles. Last time inventories were that low in mid-October was in 1951. Inventories should be 30% higher this time of the year." Fed have another wave of energy-led inflation coming?
bloomberg.com/opinion/articl...

Diesel Prices Boom On Short Supplies
Refiner margin 450% above 20 year average

Most of the products we use are transported by trucks and trains with diesel engines, and most construction, farming, and military vehicles and equipment also have diesel engines. As a transportation fuel, diesel fuel offers a wide range of performance, efficiency, and safety features. Diesel fuel also has a greater energy density than other liquid fuels, so it provides more useful energy per unit of volume.

In 2021, distillate fuel consumption by the U.S. transportation sector, which is essentially diesel fuel, was about 46.82 billion gallons (1.11 billion barrels), an average of about 128 million gallons per day. This amount accounted for about 77% of total U.S. distillate consumption, about 15% of total U.S. petroleum consumption, and on an energy content basis, about 25% of total energy consumption by the U.S. transportation sector.

Diesel fuel is used for many tasks

Diesel engines in trucks, trains, boats, and barges help transport nearly all products people consume. Diesel fuel is commonly used in public buses and school buses.

The Establishment hates outsiders!

Diesel fuel powers most of the farm and construction equipment in the United States. The construction industry also depends on the power diesel fuel provides. Diesel engines can do demanding construction work, such as lifting steel beams, digging foundations and trenches, drilling wells, paving roads, and moving soil safely and efficiently.

The U.S. military uses diesel fuel in tanks and trucks because diesel fuel is less flammable and less explosive than other fuels. Diesel engines are also less likely to stall than gasoline-fueled engines.

Continued on page 15

Tommy Robinson News

"Nobody said you wouldn't get COVID if you're vaccinated!"
Oh, really?

@TheFreeThoughtProject

| | | |
|--|---|---|
| Dr. Anthony Fauci (NIAID Director) "When people are vaccinated they're not going to get infected." | President Joe Biden (POTUS) "You're not going to get COVID if you have these vaccinations." | Rochelle Walensky, MD (CDC Director) "Vaccinated people do not carry the virus and don't get sick." |
| Rachel Maddow (MSNBC News) "Now we know the vaccines work well enough that the virus stops." | Bill Gates ('Expert') "Everyone who takes the vaccine is reducing their transmission." | Albert Bourla (Pfizer CEO) "There is no variant that escapes the protection of our vaccines." |

Never let anyone forget, especially those who continue to LIE.

Democrat Infiltration in Colorado GOP in Colorado

Park County has fallen victim to the Democrat Cabal taking over our Park County GOP. Corruption runs rampant.

There's a lot that stinks in Park County and it starts and possibly ends with Dick and Deb Elsner. The (self-appointed) King and Queen of the Park County GOP have set themselves on a path that could shine a light on their control and corruption over Park County.

On September 14, 2022 a subset of duly elected Precinct Committee Persons (PCPs) issued a request for Deb Elsner to step down as the Park County Republican Central Committee (PCRCC) chair for bylaws violations that centered around denigrating the Republican candidate for County Commissioner and openly and publicly supporting the Democrat for that same race.

The vote that night was telling, it exposed the majority of the Republican committee when they voted to maintain the status quo and keep the corruption in the PCRCC. The one victory to be had is unmasking those who do not honor their commitment to the Republican bylaws/Platform, and exposing those with no moral compass — the Democrats who have infiltrated the Republican Party in Park County.

Dick Elsner, Deb Elsner's husband is a County Commissioner for Park County and just happens to hold the chair position on the Board of County Commissioners (BOCC) where he has enjoyed a consistent 2 of 3 votes based on having the outgoing County Commissioner's vote in his back pocket. When the outgoing County Commission, Ray Douglas, did not win the primary vote, Dick and company dusted off an old vendetta and began denigrating the new Republican primary winner, Dave Wissel, as (almost) a fulltime job.

It came to our attention on October 18th that Dick Elsner was continuing his campaign for the Democrat Commissioner Candidate in this election cycle. Out of his own desperation to maintain power, sent a signed mailer to unaffiliated and Dem voters that made its way to the Patriot Republican's on the Central Committee. This chess move shows the character flaw in one who's arrogance and untouchable beliefs in his power in Park County could actually be the loose string that unravels it all.

On Monday morning October 24th, Kristi Burton-Brown, state GOP chair, notified us that the crooked, corrupt reign of Dick Elsner had come to an end... at least at the state level when she accepted his resignation as Colorado Republican State Treasurer, such malfeasance and misconduct to the state Republican values and by-laws demanded such action. Now, Dick Elsner is not a dumb man. Did he think his actions would go unchecked as they have (and do) on a daily basis? Or maybe he wanted to taunt the county and state into a showdown? We may never know.

Park County has been under the death grip of the Elsner's for way too long. After a coordinated attempt to remove Deb Elsner as Park County Republican Party Chair failed, the Democrats in the PCRCC we exposed when they voted to keep such corruption and malfeasance in office. During the hearing Deb's main talking points were not about her own actions, but those of anyone else, seemingly saying, don't look here, look over there... It sadly harkens back to junior high days when the girls were smoking in the restroom... wasn't me! Look over there. What grown woman does that you ask? A Democrat.

Deb's first chair is so corrupt she even gave up her First Chair seat so she could actively campaign for the Democrat with impunity. Trust me, this slime will return to the Central Committee, smug and disgusting after the November election when her need to campaign further has ceased. And Deb Elsner will welcome her back with open arms like a dog that just brought home a rat.

A note to the Central Committee that voted to continue the grotesque reign of a corrupt, integrity-free chair... We know who you are and we will never let you forget how complicit you are in shoring up this shttshow.

The long-time Clerk & Recorder, originally set to retire the end of December 2022, had her fill of the heinously foul Elsner reign and cited early retirement on September 15, 2022—after the showdown at the Park County GOP. The decision left Park County without Clerk prior to the mid-term election which opened the door for County Commissioner Elsner to swear in the Republican Clerk & Recorder hopeful to run the Clerk's office as interim Clerk through the election. As Republican Chair, Deb Elsner has the lead mentor role to the newly sworn Clerk. There's only one major issue. Having such a lack of integrity in her own realm, and showing her own desperation to save her husband from a fate worse than death by having to maintain his one and only commissioner vote should Dave Wissel be elected, she just might not have Park County's best interest at heart. <Can you say conflict of interest?>

Of late, the chair has denied any election judges who signed as duly eligible judges at county caucus and faithfully served in the primary, because she has a chip on shoulder about having been called out for her malfeasance. Only her friends and supporters are allowed.

Park County deserves better and it's high time we had it. Clean out the swamp starting at the county level and vote Republican on November 8th.

Diesel, continued from page 14

Diesel fuel is also used in diesel engine generators to generate electricity. Many industrial facilities, large buildings, institutional facilities, hospitals, and electric utilities have diesel generators for backup and emergency power supply. Most remote villages in Alaska use diesel generators as the primary source of electricity.

The Biden regime, with its holdovers from the Clinton and Obama regimes, has put the American economy in a dangerous position. The anti-energy policies they push, that help regimes in the Middle East, Russia and Venezuela, are killing the US.

President Trump had America energy independent in less than four years. Biden is now begging for oil from these America-hating radical regimes.

Editor's Note: With Diesel fuel supplies at high demand, and low availability, people all across the globe are at risk for freezing and starvation. This is part of the plan: Control the Food & Energy = Control the people.

We could be in for a bumpy ride. Buckle up Patriots!

By Kurt Grinsteiner

In today's political discourse, the term RINO can commonly be heard as a pejorative label against political figures. Standing for Republicans In Name Only, the term is applied sometimes with meaningful purpose and sometimes casually without context. In the current political environment, a RINO is someone who claims to support conservative values which the Republican Party claims to represent, but will eventually and even frequently betray that support.

At what point does a politician cross that line from trustworthy conservative to a back-stabbing RINO? The term has a long history going back at least 150 years and has obviously been meant as a warning. As with this excerpt "A Strange Blunder," in the National Republican (January 26, 1875):

"Next on the list, beginning from the same end, we find Mr. William Walter Phelps, of New Jersey, and Mr. Charles Foster, of Ohio, both of whom are Republican in name only, and both of whom have proved their treachery to party principles, to party friends and to the policy which can alone secure the success of the party."

Over time, the term RINO was expanded to include opportunistic liberal Democrats masquerading as Republicans. In an article by Clifford May entitled A Shaky G.O.P. Hunts in Vain for Rival to Moynihan in Race (March 22, 1988):

"Mr. Mahe noted that the same could be said of Connecticut, where the only Republican elected to statewide office is Senator Lowell P. Weicker, a staunch liberal who, he said, 'is a Republican in name only.'"

In October, we saw the exact term used once again. The GOP US Senate candidate for Colorado, Joe O'Dea, commented, "I don't think Donald Trump should run again and, & I'm going to actively campaign against Donald Trump."

Trump responded on Truth Social, "There's this RINO character in the Great State of Colorado, Joe O'Dea, that is running against the incumbent Democrat for the United States Senate, who is having a good old time saying that he wants to 'distance' himself from President Trump... MAGA doesn't vote for stupid people with big mouths."

On the surface, one could surmise that Trump's feelings were just hurt and he lashed out. However, a deeper look into Joe O'Dea is necessary. O'Dea, who avoided the Colorado state assembly, appears to have a troubling background for conservatives which may explain his unwillingness to face his fellow Republicans in the nomination process.

According to his primary opponent, Ron Hanks, "O'Dea is definitely not a conservative, nor a Republican for any reason other than convenience. It is well documented he contributed to over a dozen hard-left, socialist Democrats – including the one [Michael Bennet] he is feebly losing to in this 2022 race. Conservatives see through his failed political venture as a safety valve for leftists, on the remote chance the elections might spin out of control."

Hanks also added that O'Dea, "... pretends to be [pro-life], but he supports murderous abortion before 20 weeks of gestation. To O'Dea, apparently, some murders in the womb are acceptable, depending on the calendar..." Clearly, Hanks is doing what other Republicans have done since the mid-19th century – he is sending a warning message to the base of his party about one of their own.

Recently at one of our county's GOP executive board meetings, one of the volunteers spoke to the GOP office nominees who were in attendance. He said, "We'll work hard to get you elected, but once you're in office, don't stop being Republicans." He had a deep concern that the people in the room seeking office would turn their backs on conservatives once elected. In my view, what he meant to say was, "Don't become a RINO."

Why not just say the word, "RINO"? Well, it's fairly simple. It's still a powerful insult that implies that a politician is traitorous and devoid of Republican principles. It is so powerful that the Colorado GOP executives banned the word from the state assembly. You see, if the volunteer had called the politicians present RINOs, the reaction would be like using the n-word.

As a lifelong Republican and volunteer with my local GOP, I expect the nominated candidates to represent their base of support. I donate my money and time so that my political beliefs have a voice. I give them my vote in the hope there will be positive results. Too many times I've felt betrayed by these same people. It is time we start recognizing these warnings and stop supporting unprincipled politicians.

"The term has a long history going back at least 150 years and has obviously been meant as a warning."

British Cardiologist Dr. Aseem Malhotra on cases of Myocarditis in patients post Covid-19 Vaccine.

HOW IT Started

LIVE NORTH LONDON 2/5/2021

CORONAVIRUS VACCINE
DR ASEEM MALHOTRA
Cardiologist

7:45 PM THREE "SERIOUS" INCIDENTS OVERNIGHT WHICH INCLUDED LOCKING DOWN A HOSPITAL IN KIL...

"What were you able to say that reassured her?"
"Well, Charlotte you make some really important points there. I think the first thing we need to understand is where this vaccine hesitancy is coming from. When I spoke to Grinder, there is some sort of clearly irrational reason behind why people don't want to take the vaccine, which is based upon very blatant, false information that's circulating on Social Media."

HOW IT'S GOING

Line/LeakyVax 9/26/2022

Dr. Aseem Malhotra: How it started Vs how it's going.

"In conclusion of both papers, there is a strong scientific, ethical, and moral case to be made that COVID-19 Vaccines roll-out must stop immediately until more data has been released for fully independent scrutiny."